SUMMARY

I am product manager with holistic knowledge of website development and design. I also have experience training users from various organizations. As a product manager, I make sure that products fulfill customer needs and corporate goals throughout their whole lifecycle, from conceptualization to launch. In my capacity as a system administrator, I ensured seamless operations and strict security guidelines throughout the company by maintaining and optimizing the IT infrastructure concurrently. In addition, my proficiency as a website developer enables me to design aesthetically attractive and intuitive online platforms that improve brand visibility and encourage user interaction.
